

David Walker

David Walker has over 15 years experience in application development with over 50% of that employed as a consultant with companies such as: Texaco, Bank of Oklahoma, Winner Communications (ESPN.com) and the world's largest consulting services company (IBM Global Services ??).

David Walker is the president of several local user groups including Tulsa Developers .NET, Tulsa SQL Server Group and the newly formed Tulsa Java Developers group.

He is the director of the first annual Tulsa TechFest, which is going to be a free all day training event with over 120 presentations.

He has presented in Wichita, Dallas and Springdale at various .NET developer events.

He has been an MCP since 2003 and MCAD and MCSA since 2005. He is currently pursuing his MCDBA and then on to MCSE.

This months' topic: What is SOA and why should we care?

David Walker will give a detailed presentation on SOA (Service Oriented Architecture). It's history and why every IT professional should care. How will it

